CENTRAL WASHINGTON'S SAMANTHA BOWMAN NAMED 2023 RON LENZ NATIONAL PLAYER OF THE YEAR

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. | On Sunday, the Division II Conference Commissioners Association announced Samantha Bowman, from Central Washington, as the 2023 Women's Basketball Ron Lenz National Player of the Year to headline the All-American selections. The NCAA Division II sports information directors from institutions and conference offices voted for the teams.

Bowman, a two-time D2CCA All-American, led the country in rebounding for the second-straight season. She averaged 14.9 per game as she surpassed the 1,000-rebound total for her career. Her scoring average of 22.2 ranked sixth. She registered a double-double in 26 of her 30 games, a total that also led Division II.

Two members of teams competing in the upcoming Elite Eight claimed First-Team spots in Minnesota Duluth's Brooke Olson and Tampa's Sydney Kin.

Olson, who led the Bulldogs to the program's first Elite Eight, became a three-time D2CCA All-American. She has averaged 23.0 points per game, the third-best mark in Division II. Her 306 made field goals leads the country. Last week, she added the College Sports Communicator's DII Academic All-America Member of the Year honor.

Kin and the Spartans have won a school-record 33 games this season. She has averaged a double-double - 19.7 points and 10.5 rebounds - while connecting on a nation's-best 68.3 percent of her field-goal attempts. Her 20 double-doubles and 67 blocks both rank in the top 10 nationally.

Shippensburg's Ariel Jones finished her senior season as the nation's second-leading scorer. She averaged 24.8 points per game. She led Division II in made free throws and ranked second in attempts. She established the PSAC single-game scoring record with 51 points as well as the PSAC career scoring record with 2,806 points. Her career total ranks fourth all-time in DII history of NCAA Division II.

Young Harris College's Mackenzie Johnson rounded out the First Team. She averaged 18.1 points and 13.2 rebounds. Her 21 double-doubles placed her third in the country while her rebounding average ranked fourth.
