Around The GNAC

SPINNING THE GNAC CHAMPIONSHIPS WHEEL: There is much more uncertainty than there is uncertainty when it comes to knowing who will be participating in the GNAC Men's Basketball Championships next week in Lacey, Wash.

Let's begin with what is certain...

- Western Washington, Alaska Anchorage and Western Oregon have all secured berths in the GNAC Championships.
- Western Washington will secure the No. 1 seed in the tournament and a first round bye with a win in its next two games or a loss by Alaska Anchorage in its next two games.
- Alaska Anchorage will be the No. 2 seed and earn a first round bye with a win in its next two games coupled with a Western Oregon loss. In the event of a tie for second, Alaska Anchorage owns the tiebreaker based on the GNAC's tiebreaker formula (available on the GNAC website).
- Western Oregon is guaranteed no worse than the No. 3 seed and could claim the No. 2 if the Wolves win both remaining games and Alaska Anchorage loses its final two games.

After that, your guess is as good as ours.

Three teams enter the week tied for fourth in the GNAC as Saint Martin's, Montana State Billings and Northwest Nazarene are all at 9-9. Central Washington, Concordia and Seattle Pacific are all one game back in seventh at 8-10. Of the 12 games remaining in the regular season, in only one of them will feature two of those teams in fourth and seventh place meet each other (Montana State Billings at Concordia on Thursday).

The seeding picture should clear up some after Thursday's games, but for now there is a lot for teams to play for over the next five games.
